Funding Opportunity Description

Summary

The Pacific States Marine Fisheries Commission (PSMFC), in cooperation and funding from the NOAA Fisheries Office of Aquaculture, will be issuing approximately $450,000 in grants to fund marine aquaculture pilot projects focusing on sustainable aquatic farming techniques and regional business practices to grow U.S. domestic seafood.

Background

More than ninety percent of seafood consumed in the United States is imported, and of that amount, more than half of imported seafood is from overseas aquaculture. The United States ranks only fifteenth in aquaculture job production despite possessing the largest exclusive economic zone in the world.

To address the major lost opportunity for job creation in coastal communities and to encourage the development of a domestic seafood supply, the three interstate marine fisheries commissions, with funding from NOAA fisheries, will be seeking proposals to conduct regional pilot programs for partnerships between the seafood industry and community partners. The goal of these pilot programs will be to develop, validate and deploy economically and environmentally sustainable aquatic farming techniques and regional business practices to grow U.S. domestic seafood production. To maximize the impact of these pilot grants, we are giving priority consideration to promising but less commercially developed technologies, such as those targeting shellfish, seaweed, and other relative newcomers to the domestic aquaculture industry.

Scope of Work

The geographic scope of the proposed projects is for the U.S. West Coast states of Alaska, California, Oregon and Washington, as well as Hawaii and U. S. Pacific Islands. The primary location of the proposed projects must be in the marine waters/estuarine environment.

Some examples of the types of pilot projects to advance the potential development and implementation of developing, validating and deploying economically and environmentally sustainable aquatic farming techniques and regional business practices to grow U.S. domestic seafood production are as follows:

1. Planning work for Programmatic Permitting development
2. Seaweed, sea cucumber, and shellfish farming
3. Farming of shellfish species new to aquaculture in the region such as native clams, purple hinge rock scallop, gooseneck barnacles, etc.
4. Food safety certification of seafood farmed in federal waters:
5. Genetic selection and work for shellfish related to adaptation/mitigation of ocean acidification

The Pacific States Marine Fisheries Commission (PSMFC) will be issuing $450,000 in grants to qualified projects. Individual proposals should not exceed $100,000 or be less than $50,000. We anticipate funding approximately 6-8 projects.

Eligible Applicants

Researchers at U.S. academic institutions, research laboratories, for-profit companies/firms, nonprofits, and state agencies are all eligible. Proposals from foreign entities are not eligible. Proposals involving multiple investigators are welcome. Any U.S. federal government agencies, including Regional Fishery Management Councils, are not eligible to receive funding through this solicitation.

D. Conflict of Interest

A conflict of interest exists when financial interests or other opportunities for tangible personal or professional benefit could influence or appear to influence the professional judgment of a member of the Proposal Review Committee. Improper influence could be used to not only advance one's own research program, but also to unfairly promote a family member's, colleague's or former student's program. Thus, care must be exercised to avoid a conflict of interest during the proposal review process and the discussion of past, current or proposed research. A conflict of interest also exists when circumstances simply have the appearance of compromising the professional judgement of a member of the Proposal Review Committee. It is the policy of PSMFC that conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts of interest shall be avoided wherever possible and disclosed and minimized in situations where interests cannot be reasonably separated. Whenever a conflict of interest arises during discussions of the Proposal Review Committee, the member in question shall disclose the possible conflict and excuse themselves from the discussion.
