WASHINGTON COASTAL DUNGENESS CRAB INDUSTRY NOTICE

Season Opening from Cape Arago, Oregon to Klipsan Beach, Washington

CORRECTED VERSION

Pre-season test results for the stations off Long Beach, Washington were completed this morning and showed that meat recovery was 27.9 percent, which is an improvement from the 22.8 percent meat recovery when the crab were last tested in early December. The minimum meat recovery needed to open the fishery north of Cascade Head, Oregon is 23 percent (no rounding).

Based on this recent test, the Tri-State Dungeness Crab Committee has agreed to open the commercial Dungeness crab season in the area between Klipsan Beach, Washington and Cape Arago, Oregon at 9:00 am January 4, 2019, with a 73-hour gear set beginning at 8:00 am on January 1, 2019. Hold inspections will be conducted beginning at noon January 3, 2019.

Fishers participating in the fishery south of Klipsan Beach or in Willapa Bay are subject to reduced pot limits.
